Former Foreign Minister Delcasse Says That Alliance of Two Nations Means Sustaining of Peace of the World.

Paris, July 12.-Former Foreign Minister Deleasee in the course of an interview published by the Gaulois to-day on the British and French naval amenities at Brest, was induced to discuss his general policy relative to Great Britain and Ger-

"The policy of nations nowadays is not based on sentiment or antipathy, but upon their material interests. As between Germany and Great Britain our commercia balance shows where our interests lie. Great Britain is our best purchaser, while Germany buys almost nothing of us, and tries to sell us all she can. "Moreover, it is evident that we could leave open irritating controversies with Great Britain which might precipi-tate an armed struggle, for Great Britain holds indisputably the empire of the seas. For every warship we build she builds four or five.

"It is therefore well to accept these manifest facts and consider the value which British co-operation would give us in certain eventualities. The greatest intrinsic of such co-operation would be the virtual impossibility in which it would place Germany of making war on us." MOROCCO AFFAIR NOT ALARMING. M. Deleasse was asked if he considered the recent menaces in connection with Morocco as being serious, He replied: "Not at all. In case of war Great Britain would surely be with us against Germany, and then what would the infant fleet of Germany amount to? What would become of her ports, of her commerce, of her merchant marine? It would mean annihilation. That is the real significance of the present exchange of visits of the British and French squadrons. An understanding between these two Powers and a coalition of their navies would create a

PAPERS IN WOOD-COUDREY CONTEST HAVE BEEN FILED; 6,000 TYPEWRITTEN PAGES

Voluminous Exhibits of the Contestants Fill Three Large Wooden Boxes and Several Packages and Include Names of All Voters in the Twelfth Missouri District, Registration Books, Photographs of Saloons and Lodging-Houses and 2,200 Undelivered Registered Letters Which Were Addressed to Alleged Registered Voters.

FOURTH WARD IS THE ONLY ONE THAT IS CONTESTED.

Wyatt Building, 18th and F Streets. Washington, July 12-Promptly at 12 o'clock today, Clerk McDowell of the House of Representatives opened the papers in the Wood-Coudrey contested election case from the Twelfth Missouri Dis-

This is the fourth consecutive contest from the "Butler" district. The papers are not so voluminous as those submitted in the Butler-Reynolds case, which was the last contest decided, though it required one and one-half hours to go through them. Ernest E. Wood was present on his own behalf, while Harry M. Coudrey was represented by his attorney, Wilson A. Taylor of St. Louis.

As is well known in St. Louis, the Fourth Ward-otherwise known as the "Snake Kinney" ward, is the only one contested by Coudrey, in which he alleges majority last fall was 950, Should Congress knock out the returns from the Fourth Ward, Coudrey would be declared elected

VOLUMINOUS EXHIBITS. To substantiate the claim of the extensive frauds in the Fourth Ward, Mr. Taylor, on behalf of Coudrey, filed a deposition of 3,000 typewritten pages, supple mented by 230 pages of testimony in re-

In addition he submitted a large number of exhibits, covering all of the election machinery employed, which filled three large wooden boxes and several packages of generous proportions. Many of the exhibits were allowed by Clerk McDowell to be printed as part of the record of the case, while others will be turned over to the Elections Committee, ta which the case is to be referred next winter.

Among the exhibits is a complete summary of the case, giving the name of each voter, his residence, etc., in each of the ten wards in the Twelfth District. This makes a large, bulky roll and will not be printed in the record of the case. All of the 2.50 registered letters which were addressed to the alleged bogus voters and which were not delivered because of wrong address or because they were not called for when notices were left, also are among the bulky exhibits, together with a lot of photographs of saloons and lodging-houses where these voters claimed residence. The registration books also were filed.

WOOD'S PAPERS.

WOOD'S PAPERS. Mr. Wood did not seriously object to anything that was offered by Mr. Taylor. He in turn submitted a neatly-arranged deposition of oral testimony taken for his side of the case, which comprises between 2,000 and 2,500 typewritten pages. Mr. Wood also submitted about 200 registration 2000 and 2,500 typewritten pages. Mr. Wood also submitted about 200 registration lists and a few maps.

The only portion of Wood's testimony to which Mr. Taylor objected was that given by L. W. Greathouse, who, he said, testified that he found 600 persons in the district who have no existence, in fact. The main ground of Mr. Taylor's objection seemed to be that Greathouse went onto the witness stand with a typewritten list of questions and answers already prepared, which Taylor contends was not oral testimony. He allowed it to go into the record under protest.

Among the registered letters filed with Colonel McDowell to-day, was one addressed to Wood, which elicited a few pleasantries at the latter's expense. Wood declared that the letter carrier did not find him because he was not looking for him, and that it was the only letter he had not received during his four years' residence at St. Louis.

Mr. Wood came to Washington from Manhattan Beach for the opening of his case. He has been absent from St. Louis for some weeks on a vacation trip and will go to Maine for several weeks before returning home. Mr. Taylor left this

FOUNDLING GROWN TO MANHOOD SEEKS HIS PARENTS AND ESTATE

Edward Fowler, St. Louis Confectioner, Hopes to Establish Relationship to Rich Montgomery, Ala., Family-Heirs Being Sought.

BENT ON SOLVING MYSTERY.

Left in a basket on a stranger's door step while an infant, and for twenty years without knowledge of his parentage or kin, Edward Fowler of No. 56 Market street believes that at last he is about to establish his relationship to a wealthy family in Montgomery, Ala., and claim a share of a large estate for which helrs are now being sought. The first tangible clew to his identity as ther of the Fowler family ministration of the German Empire was en to the young man by Miss Emma Smith, with whose mother, Mrs. Dolly Smith, he has made his home for six years. Several months ago the girl read in a newspaper an account of efforts that were being made to find a young man who, as a baby; was left in Montgomery and who later had been taken away for adoption by strangers in the community. When Miss Smith read the story young Fowler was temporarily absent from St. Louis. On his return, several weeks ago, she urged him to write the municipal authorities of Montgomery for information. Thus far the investigation seems to prove that he and the missing heir are the same person. Attorney Hickman P. Rodgers of St. Louis has been retained by Fowler to clear the mystery of his birth and connection. Letters have been written to Mayor Carr and to other prominent per-sons in Montgomery, asking their assist-ance, and ther have responded with af-firmative assurances.

STRANGE LIFE STORY. The story of young Fowler's life, if the sequel is what he now has reason to hope it will be, may have few parallels even For the incidents of his infancy and

For the incidents of his infancy and childhood Fowler has had to trust to the tales that were told him by attendants and inmates of the asylum where he spent the first six years of his life, but later investigation has added patches here and there to complete his biography.

Fowler was not yet six months eld, according to all testimony, when he was found by Mayor Fitzgerald, of Montgomery, one morning in the autumn of 1884. The Mayor took the child to the county institution for safekeeping until those who had deserted him or kidneped him should come to claim the foundling. As Mayor Fitzgerald is long since dead his help cannot be obtained. his help cannot be obtained.

For six years young Fowler remained at the institution in charge of Jennie be glad to lose the estate if he finds his parents as a recompense.

EDWARD FOWLER.

1800 John D. Bever, a dealer in live-stock, appeared in Montgomery. He and his wife were childless and they wanted to adopt a baby. Mr. Bever went to the county asylum. As he was about to enter the yard young Fowler, then hardly six years old, addressed him as "papa." The coincidence so impressed Bever that he decided to take the boy. Papers of adop-tion were secured, and Bever took his ward to Crockett. Tex. Later they re-moved from that place to Huntsman, Tex., then to Tyler and thence to Hot Springs.

FOSTER FATHER MISSING. In Hot Springs Fowler was sent to school while his foster-parents conducted the Columbia Hotel. In 1896 Bever came to St. Louis and became proprietor of the Waverly Hotel, at Eighth and Market streets. He met financial reverses in that venture, his wife died and he departed from St. Louis, leaving young Fowler in the care of Mrs. Smith.

the care of Mrs. Smith.

For a time Bever's whereabouts was unknown to Fowler, but last autumn Bever visited St. Louis. Since then all trace of him has been lost to Fowler.

While still a boy, Fowler says, he was troubled by the thought of his desertion or abduction and always was determined to find his parents. With the money that he has earned as a confectioner he intends to defray the cost of the investigation now to defray the cost of the investigation now of the curtains, thinking that they were being lowered to prevent the people from seeing the storm. Women began acreaming and children cried.

The leader of the orchestra stopped the performers and explained to the frightened people the cause of the noise and of the lowering of the curtains.

Owing to the rain the races were run on the midway. Allen Mohr. No. 1733 Waverly place, won the first prize in the sack race, a baseball mask, and also the first prize in the peanut race, a baseball. The Waverly place boys cheered him lustily. Through Allen they saw the possibility of a complete baseball outlit, but the judges barred him after the second race, because they, too, looked upon him as a "dead sure winner."

The evening was spent in dancing on the roof garden and in seeing the performances. Coupons were given each person attending the theater, and the holders of the locky numbers received prizes.

In the afternoon the prizes were won by Miss Corgon of No. 802 Manchester avenue and Miss Helen Dittler, No. 3519 Arkansas avenue. The winners at night were Miss Adelaide Brooks, No. 421 Olive street, and Mrs. Charles Kreh, No. 321 Lemp avenue.
